1. Upon further consideration and in light of applicant's amendments/remarks, the following revised restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. § 121:

- I. Claims 1-28, drawn to a "slider" with a "responsive aeroelastic deposit having a third coefficient of expansion responsive to the stimulus that is greater than the first coefficient of expansion", classified in class 360, subclass 235.3.
- II. Claims 29-31, drawn to a "slider" with "means for altering a height of the aeroelastic feature relative to both the substrate surface and the transducer, responsively to the stimulus", classified in class 360, subclass 294.7.
- III. Claims 32-38, drawn to a "data storage system", classified in class 360, subclass 97.01.

2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions of groups I and II are related as subcombinations disclosed as usable together in a single combination. The subcombinations are distinct from each other if they are shown to be separately usable. In the instant case, the invention of group II has separate utility such as usable with a slider not including "a responsive aeroelastic deposit having a third coefficient of expansion responsive to the stimulus that is greater than the first coefficient of expansion", for instance. See MPEP § 806.05(d).

Inventions of groups III and I are related as combination and subcombination, respectively. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination does not require for a "convergent channel", a "channel wall", an "cavity dam", a "cavity wall", a "sub-ambient pressure formation", a "cavity surface", or a "debris shield", for instance. The subcombination has separate utility such as usable with a data storage system not including "a transducer disposed on the substrate and extending therefrom to a transducer height", for instance.

Inventions of groups III and II are related as combination and subcombination, respectively. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination does not require for "means for altering a height of the aeroelastic feature relative to both the substrate surface and the transducer, responsively to the stimulus", for instance. The subcombination has separate utility such as usable with a data storage system not including "a responsive aeroelastic deposit having a third coefficient of expansion responsive to the stimulus that is greater than the first coefficient of expansion", for instance.

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
4. A telephone call was made to Bryan F. Erickson on 07 August 2005, but did not result in an election being made.
5. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
6. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).
